Walkout Favored 124 to 40

Strike Vote Threatens District's Milk Supply

Door Still Open For Negotiations

By DAVID FRANCIS

Employees of Victoria's four major milk distributors have voted for a strike that would reduce the area's milk supply to a trickle.

No date for the walkout has been set.

"The door is open for negotiations," said Ben McCrone, secretary of Local 364 Milk Salesmen and Dairy Employees' Union.

Cabinet To Fill Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday he will announce further appointments to his 17-member cabinet early next week.

Speaking to reporters following an afternoon cabinet meeting, he indicated that some but not necessarily all of five portfolios, now held by other ministers on an acting basis, will be filled.

The five portfolios are agriculture, health and welfare, mines, defence production and citizenship and immigration.

Results of the government supervised ballot were 124 in favor of strike action and 40 against.

The four firms affected are Palm Dairies Ltd., Shepherd's Dairy Ltd., Island Farms Dairies Co-operative Association and Northwestern Creameries Ltd. distribute over 90 per cent of the milk sold in Greater Victoria and almost the entire production of pasteurized milk.

A large proportion of the city's ice cream production would also be cut off.

Not involved are about five producer-distributors of raw milk and one small pasteurization plant in Central Saanich.

In the event of a strike, the union would be prepared to work out a plan with the dairies for emergency deliveries of milk, Mr. McCrone stated.

"Our quarrel is not with the people who really need milk, such as small children, invalids and the hospitals," he said. "Our dispute is with the dairies."

FARMERS' POSITION

About 110 milk producers in the area who supply the four distributors would either have to sell their milk elsewhere or find some means of distributing it themselves, or let it go to waste.

"In all probability we would find a way to distribute our milk," said William Adrian, secretary-manager of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association.

However, he noted any decisions would be up to the association's board of directors.

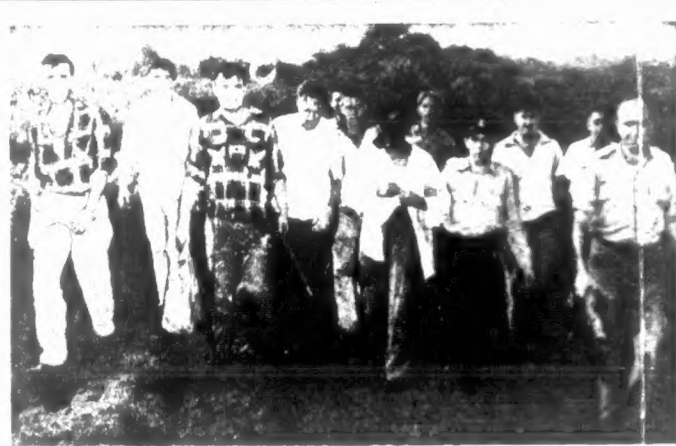

About 300,000 gallons of milk a month, valued at $135,000 at the farmers' level, is produced in the area, Mr. Adrian estimated.

REASON FOR VOTE

The union asked for a strike vote after the distributors rejected a unanimous conciliation board report recommending continuation of the present six day delivery schedule, and a $30 a month raise for driver salesmen and $32 for plant employees.

The boost would raise a

Ike Fears

Disarmament Not Practical

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower conceded yesterday that total disarmament is not practical.

But he said a way must be found to rid the world of fear of nuclear war.

Eisenhower said complete disarmament is more of a hope than a real possibility at this stage of discussion.

This is so, the president suggested, because there is no sure way to expose atomic bombs in national arsenals. He said there is no known way to detect such stockpiles.

Eisenhower was asked by reporters to comment on an apparent discrepancy between some of his recent statements on disarmament and those of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The president said he had merely expressed an aspiration. Dulles, he said, expressed the reality of today's world.

Eisenhower repeated that he could not say it would be practical now to think in terms of total disarmament.

'Betray Churchill'

Duke Foiled Nazi Plot

H-Bomb Called Saviour

LONDON (Reuters)—An Independent Conservative member of parliament Wednesday said the hydrogen bomb is "the greatest saviour of mankind ever devised." Viscount Hinchinbrooke said no country now will risk total annihilation through atomic war.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

Crown of England Was Their Reward

WASHINGTON (AP)—Captured Second World War documents made public Wednesday disclosed that the Nazis offered in 1940 to put the Duke of Windsor back on the British throne provided he undercut Prime Minister Churchill and got his people to surrender.

In a statement on the publication the duke confirmed that "certain people whom I discovered British foreign office. They tried to be pro-Nazi sympathy cover German foreign policy thizers" did approach him in during June 23 Aug 31, 1940.

He said he treated Hitler's foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, emerges as the mastermind behind the furious, fruitless efforts to win over the duke and duchess.

They backed their plan with phony bomb scares and other threats to his life and the life of his American-born wife.

Here is the story from the Nazi viewpoint as told in the documents.

The duke was in Lisbon, Portugal, on his way to the Bahamas. He was pictured as "hesitated even up to the last moment." They blamed the duke's legal adviser and then deputy foreign minister Sir Walter Monckton, as the nemesis who "influenced" the duke to reject their grandiose plan.

The hitherto top secret papers implicate Portuguese and Spanish officials, among them Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who is indicated to have approved the whole idea.

The diplomatic messages and reports were released Wednesday night simultaneously by the man proposition.

Structure of UN May Collapse Warns Churchill

LONDON (UP)—Sir Winston Churchill warned the American Bar Association last night the operation of the United Nations must be improved or "the whole structure may be brought to nothing."

Proposing a toast to the legal profession at a dinner ending the American lawyers' stay here, Churchill said the UN General Assembly had been "vastly swollen" in size beyond the "intention of its architects."

"I do not throw in my lot with those who say Britain should leave the UN," the aging statesman said, "but it is certain that if the assembly continues to take its decisions on grounds of enmity, opportunism or merely jealousy and petulance, the whole system may be brought to nothing."

Churchill said the U.N. had failed in many cases — "Hungary does creep across my mind" — and warned that justice couldn't be a hit or miss system.

SIR WINSTON

Garbage Men's Sons Okay

New Blood in Striped Pants

LONDON (AP)—Sons of garbage men do not become British diplomats. Five tried to make the grade in the last nine years — but they were turned down.

A British white paper announcing changes in the recruitment system for the Foreign Office, reported this — and indicated that a few sons of garbage men might not be a bad idea.

It said that by following the present system of selection the Foreign Office "may have missed some good potential recruits."

So, for a trial period of five years, the Foreign Office is going to alter slightly its policy of recruiting young men.

Under the present system, the Foreign Office bases its selection mostly on personal interviews, with only a short written examination. Many young men pass the written test, but flunk the personal one.

In the personal interview great importance has been attached to an applicant's accent, manners, looks, the way he dresses, his conversational abilities and personality.

Under the new system more importance will be placed on the written examination.

The white paper said that over the last nine years 22 sons of bus conductors and window cleaners applied for Foreign Office jobs. Only two made the grade.

From the 365 sons of secretaries, composers, clerks and civil service workers 12 were accepted.

Of 778 sons of teachers and business managers 42 applicants were successful. The majority of budding young diplomats had company directors, lawyers, doctors and other professional men for fathers.

Oronsay Flares Start Panic

No Gay Farewells!

VANCOUVER (CP)—From a parting signal as it steamed now on, ships leaving Vancouver will have to give notice to harbor officials if they intend to make any colorful farewell gestures.

The Orient liner Oronsay fired two red parachute flares as parting signal as it steamed from Burrard Inlet.

Within minutes, RCAF search and rescue co-ordination centre was besieged with telephone calls reporting an aircraft crashing, people parachuting to earth, and debris falling on the north shore of the Inlet.

Four aircraft — two Expedi-ters, a Canoe and a Dakota, took off from Sea Island and searched for more than two hours over Mount Seymour and other North Shore mountains. Capt. R. W. Roberts of the Oronsay radioed later that the flares were set off as a message of farewell to Vancouver.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE little war now under way in the Sultanate of Muscat and Oman really started with an 18th-century family quarrel. But the history of the region goes back further than that. I learned a little about this part of the world recently when I spoke to Sir Robert Holland, one-time consul and political agent at Muscat.

The sultanate is a broad coastal belt some 1,000 miles long in the southeastern corner of the Arabian peninsula, at the entrance to the Persian Gulf. The seaport city of Muscat, its capital, was believed to have been a home of the prehistoric Phoenicians. For 150 years it was a Portuguese colony and key trading centre for the Persian Gulf.

In 1650 the faltering Portuguese were thrown out by Arab armies. Muscat became a power in its own right. By 1730 it had conquered the Portuguese settlements in East Africa and other territories, as far away as Zanzibar.

A brief Persian invasion in 1741-43 ended with the rise of the present Arab dynasty, the Al Abu Salids, who in addition to being temporal rulers, were Imams (spiritual heads) of the Kharjite sect of Islam.

That family quarrel broke out in 1793, when Saliyyid Sultan, a junior member of the ruling clan, seized Muscat and the coast, leaving the titular Imam in possession of the interior, with the small town of Rostaq as his capital.

And so it has remained to this day: the Sultan and his descendants holding Muscat and the coast, the Imam and his heirs reigning over a wild kingdom of indefinite size and vague boundaries inland. Every now and then the followers of the Imam staged a raid into the Sultan's territory, killed a few men, took temporary hold of a piece of coast, then retreated inland with the Sultan's men in pursuit. It was a family feud centuries old, in one of the hottest, most romantic, savage and desolate places in the world.

Strategic Zone

Outside powers were interested too. Muscat and other Arab states of the Persian Gulf lay in a strategic zone, where Britain, Turkey, Persia, Russia and the Arab power of the Nejd all jostled for influence.

The Arab sheikdoms of the Persian Gulf were too small to maintain their independence without help. Since Britain's East India Company had crowded out the rival Dutch East India Company, Britain had been the most important maritime, naval and trading power in the Persian Gulf. Britain wanted to safeguard communication with India; to stamp out slave-trading and piracy.

With these ends in view, she negotiated a series of treaties with the gulf sheikdoms, among which was that of Muscat and Oman.

The treaties promised British protection in return for certain privileges. Britain was to supervise the foreign affairs of these states but refrain from meddling in their internal affairs. Britain got pearling, sponge-fishing and oil concessions; extra-territorial rights.

Britain and the Sultanate of Muscat have been friends for 150 years. A new treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation was signed in 1951.

But the territory was still divided between the Sultan on the coast and the Imam inland. By the Treaty of Sib, 1920, the Sultan undertook not to interfere in the internal affairs of the tribes which recognized the Imam, but maintained his authority over the whole sultanate unimpaired.

Lately, the Imam's forces have launched another assault on the Sultan's territory. Some say the Imam has outside support. No oil has been found in Muscat and Oman. It could be found in the future. But Sir Robert Holland is inclined to believe that the present struggle is largely a political one, and that oil has little to do with it.

Britain, maintaining her historic pledge of friendship and support, has sent airplanes to help the Sultan.

Sold Arms to Enemy

In 1909-10, when Sir Robert was British political agent and consul in Muscat, the Sultan was gathering a far revenue from the arms traffic. Guns and ammunition were landed at Muscat from deep-sea ships and shipped out again stealthily in dhows to Baluchistan, where they found their way into the hands of rebel tribesmen on the Indian frontier.

Not only was the Sultan collecting from the arms trade in India, but he was also indirectly selling arms to his old enemy the Imam, and making money on it.

Sir Robert was able to end the arms traffic by negotiating a payment to the Sultan of more money than he was making from guns. It was a large official bribe from Britain.

The old sultan, Saliyyid Faisal bin Turki, was in power in Sir Robert's time. One of the Imam's hired assassins stole within the defences and killed a high officer in the Sultan's army. "What shall I do?" he asked Sir Robert. "I have a very good assassin—shall I send him to kill one of their men?"

"No," Sir Robert advised. "Send up a force, destroy an oasis and imprison as many local Arabs as you can."

The sultan followed his advice. After a time the captives, imprisoned in one of the two old Portuguese forts overlooking the harbor, began to die. They were desert Arabs used to wide spaces. Captivity was hard on them.

Sir Robert advised him to let the rest of them go. There was no trouble for some time after that.

The old sultan and his son, Saliyyid Taimur, the present sultan, were both friends of Sir Robert.

Sir Robert had the job of receiving the young sultan on a visit to Britain. An aerial display was put on for him. A plane plunged into the ground and exploded. The sultan was a tender-hearted man. "He turned and looked at me and his eyes were filled with tears. After that he refused to look at the aerial display any longer."

Sir Robert remembers the searing heat of Muscat, and the Sultan's sentinels calling to one another through the night from the watchtowers in the hills ringing the town.

Nazi Plan

What Jews Missed

LONDON (Reuters)—German plans for a Jewish national state in Madagascar, to be ruled by a German police government, were disclosed in a set of documents published here yesterday.

One aim of the plans was to prevent the possible creation of Israel from Palestine.

CAPTURED PAPERS

The proposal, described as a solution to the Jewish question in Europe, is contained in the latest volume of captured German documents, released jointly here and in Washington.

Under the plan, a conquered France would agree to give up Madagascar and compensate and resettle its French residents. Germany would hold the island under mandate, and it would be governed by a German Jew otherwise would have self administration.

GERMAN CONTROL

Jews on Madagascar, it said, would be held in German hands "as a pledge for the future good conduct of the members of their race in America." They would drop their original nationality when deported, but would not acquire German citizenship. "In short they will be citizens of the mandate of Madagascar."

PERTH, Australia, Britain is far ahead of the rest of the world in the commercial development of atomic power, Australia's leading atomic scientist, Prof. Marcus Oliphant, said here on his return from a tour of Britain, Canada and the United States.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Captured second world war documents made public Wednesday report an American oilman made a $250,000 payment to the tempt to block President Franklin D. Roosevelt's re-nomination.

The documents, dealing with Hitler's efforts to keep the United States out of the war, name such Americans as Charles A. Lindbergh, Henry Ford, Wendell Willkie, and radio commentator Fulton Lewis Jr.

Hans Thomsen, then in charge of Nazi Germany's embassy in Washington, cabled Berlin regularly on the progress of his propaganda campaign to encourage American isolationist sentiment for neutrality.

FOUND IN BERLIN

The German documents were taken from the German foreign ministry and Reich chancellery archives by the Allies when Berlin fell.

They report, among other things:

1. That the late W. R. Davis, who at the time was dealing in various oil matters for the Mexican government, "paid $250,000 to the national and Pennsylvania state Democratic organizations." It was reported that Davis, in February, 1940, acting through Walter A. Jones, paid about $100,000 to the representative of the Pennsylvania Democratic organization for the purpose of buying the approximately 40 Pennsylvania delegates to vote against Roosevelt at the party convention in Chicago, to be held July 17.

BONDAGE TO JEWRY

2. That "Lindbergh's attitude is to wait and see whether Willkie will be able to avoid the bondage to Jewry." Further that "the circle about Lindbergh . . . now tries at least to impede the fatal control of American policy by the Jews." Lindbergh was called "the most important of . . . the forces opposing the Jewish element and the present policy of the United States."

3. That a group of "prominent business men and politicians," headed by "James Mooney of General Motors" favored urging Roosevelt to send an ambassador to Berlin. The post had been vacant in protest against Hitler's policies, "as since a new ambassador to London, and suspend arms shipments to Britain pending fresh talks with the German government."

ADVICE TO HITLER

4. That the late Henry Ford personally proposed to Thomsen that before Hitler attacked England he should publicly define his viewpoint and aims so as "to have a widespread effect on American public opinion." Mooney also was recorded as having made a similar suggestion.

5. That two points in the 1940 Republican Party platform—

No More than Their Duty

BECAUSE a boy was killed and three others injured last week in an appalling car crash at the bottom of a cliff, the police have been subjected to some unthinking criticism with respect to the practice—followed by police everywhere—of giving chase to fast-driven automobiles. The root of these complaints is that the pursued driver will almost always increase speed in an attempt to escape, and that therefore the chase itself is a provocative ingredient of whatever disaster may follow.

A question may be directed to those whose feelings of horror at what occurred have prompted them to condemn the traffic officers. What would have been the public reaction and their own if a fatal crash had occurred without the police attempting to halt the car's wild flight by the only means available? Surely public indignation then would have been general—and with cause. So it is a case of the police being damned if they do and damned if they don't.

In all pursuits at high speed one of the main purposes of the police is to prevent disaster. The occupants of the speeding car are not the only ones whose lives are in danger. Every means possible must be employed to stop it before it can mow down innocent people who may be in its path. In this particular case little boys were involved; but in other incidents of the kind—and they are dreadfully common nowadays—the driver may be a drunken incompetent and his car a vehicle of potential destruction until its mad journey can be arrested. With the types of driver encountered everywhere these days no one's life would be safe if it were known that pursuit would be abandoned when police cars reached the legal limit. The law then might as well surrender the streets and highways to the reckless to use as they wished.

It is idle also to say that a stolen car driven at great speed should not be pursued because ultimately it will be abandoned for the police to recover. By then it may have strewn death and misery in its wake. It is equally futile to suggest that it is better to allow criminals to escape than to chase them at high speed when their flight may send others hurtling to destruction.

In this as in other instances of the same kind the police were doing what they had to do to protect the public, at imminent peril to themselves. Whatever the tragic outcome they deserve commendation, not public rebuke or condemnation. It is noteworthy that the bereaved mother was the first to acknowledge that the officers were only doing their duty.

Timberlands and Drainage

IN the early decades of this century if any one had suggested that British Columbia's reputedly unlimited water-powers were capable of exhaustion he would have been laughed at. Yet some of the chief concerns today are the probable insufficiency of water on Vancouver Island in the future; the hard choice between hydro-rivers and salmon-rivers on the Mainland; and a lessening precipitation table, due in no small measure to the spoiling of natural drainage systems by the strip-clear logging methods used for too long and in too many places in the past.

Two instances, of a number that could be cited, come to mind readily. One is the history of Cowichan Lake and its drainage system, including the Cowichan River. Extensive denuding of the hill slopes draining into Cowichan Lake over a period of some 20 years altered the natural conditions under which that watershed collected and stored its water. This affected the lake level in winter and in summer; the natural function of the river which drained it; the storage of snow on the hills, and the degree of precipitation in the whole basin. Had British Columbia in that period been protected by statute from interference with a natural watershed in this fashion, the Cowichan drainage system need never have known a shortage. Twice in the same period the City of Duncan has had to move its intake pipes to accommodate the altered and lessened water flow in the river. Forest regeneration, natural and assisted, may require decades to repair the damage.

The other instance was brought into focus last week when the B.C. Power Commission called tenders to reverse the flow of a river farther north on the Island, so that it will increase the storage potential of the Campbell Lakes and river system. There are not many rivers on Vancouver Island which could lend themselves to similar treatment. Even if there were, robbing Peter to pay Paul has limitations, and there is no net gain in precipitation or in the total water supply available.

It has been left to recent times to trace the direct connection between rainfall and ground cover, and to assign to the former its proper place in Nature's engineering. On Vancouver Island today water is precious. Full-flowing rivers would mean much, not only to this generation but to those that will follow. On the Mainland, though the time may appear more distant, there will be a use for every acre-foot of water that can be conserved. British Columbia no longer has rivers to squander if its economic potential is to be developed. In the foregoing instances, both significant for themselves, one may read the cost of neglect of conservation until the remedy comes too late or there is none at all.

Before the end of the present century all the accessible water-powers of the province may have been allocated and put to use. What is important now is to see that perpetuation of forest lands and conservation of drainage basins go hand in hand. They are interwoven.

Contingent Liabilities

THE British Columbia government may be very proud of the Province's "contingent liabilities," but one day they may have to be weighed. The B.C. Power Commission will probably be able to handle its own refunding. The Toll and Bridges Authority will be setting a distinct B.C. precedent if it can always do likewise; as the journals of the past Legislatures will testify. The P.G.E. for its part started with a relatively small issue of inscribed stock in London, taken over by the Province from the hands of the initial constructors.

Its history, too, may be found in the records of the Legislatures of the past. Of its future one may be more hopeful, because the PGE now goes somewhere and serves a growing region. It would be a very optimistic individual, however, who would expect the provincially-owned railway to earn its carrying charges, its principal refundings and its capital extension requirements out of operating revenue and always without help from the Province. Its debt has not proved to be self-liquidating in the past. In point of fact a good deal had to be written off.

Interpreting the News

Russia Woos Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan (NANA)—While King Mohammed Zahir does the rounds of a royal reception in Moscow, Soviet cash is raining down on his capital.

In the past several years Russia has put up an estimated $150,000,000 for this country's use, or about $1250 for each person in this mountain-ringed nation on her southern border. This is more than Russia has spent on any other country outside the Iron Curtain.

The Afghan royal visit to Moscow is a small part of a concentrated Soviet effort in Afghanistan that began in 1955 when Khrushchev and Bulganin visited Kabul and handed over a $100,000,000 loan, a fantastic sum in proportion to the nation's economy.

Russia has specified the kind of projects for which the money can be used. It is of interest that they are the kind of things Russia would like to have around if Afghanistan should one day turn Communist—by subversion or invasion.

There are signs of Russia's generosity and interest in this capital city. The dark loaves of bread sold on the streets come from the Russian-built bakery. The streets themselves are paved as the result of a Russian loan. The Russians built a flour mill, grain elevators and gasoline storage facilities. Russian gasoline has been selling in Kabul at the give-away price of 25 cents a gallon. Czechoslovakia, Russia's cousin, offered help with a cement plant, coal briquette plant and glass factory. These are all projects that the Afghans can see. One of the criticisms of American aid is that most of it is back country. In huge development projects, that people can't see and so have little propaganda value.

Still, in spite of this tremendous Russian aid, the United States is less feared than the Soviet Union.

"The Afghans figure we're 10,000 miles away and don't want to make them the 49th state," American officials explain it. Russia is right next door and has been in the habit of crashing down doors and taking over. After a period of coolness, Afghans have been most friendly to Americans since the Soviet intervention in Hungary.

United States aid programs are usually in the form of technical assistance and loans. The major grant of funds has been $9,560,000 for airport and aviation development.

The biggest thing going in Afghanistan is the huge Helmand Valley project, done largely under a private contract between the Afghan government and Morrison-Knudsen, Inc., an American construction firm. The Afghans have hired American advisers on the project. About $40,000,000 has been advanced by a loan through the export-import bank.

The Helmand Valley development will generate 126,000 kilowatts of electricity, bring 700,000 acres of land into production and raise the $12,000,000 agricultural income to more than $100,000,000 by 1965 if estimates prove true. The project has moved ahead over six years with surprising speed for Afghanistan, where things seldom move fast.

Canadian Notebook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

MONTREAL undoubtedly has something of the old Parisian atmosphere. I write "old" because

Paris is much better behaved than it used to be. Montreal could do well to emulate modern Paris a little more in the way of banning motor horns, for example. The determination of drivers to frighten the daylight out of pedestrians and other drivers by persistent horn blowing is incredible—and, as always, ineffectual.

I saw more light-jumping by motorists and pedestrians in Montreal than anywhere else, and if there is a speed limit it would be interesting to know how many people observe it. There were moments when the visitor could be forgiven for believing that road races were being run down the main streets.

It does not prevent Montreal being kind to Americans. Many of the stores displayed notices announcing that American currency would be accepted at par. Others emphasized the opposite. But Canadians were not slow to take advantage of the former. One of them, after a suit priced $70, went to the bank first to buy American currency and saved himself $3.

This scribe had his moment, too. On my presenting a $5 U.S. bill at a restaurant in payment of a $1.75 check the cashier informed me that she was sorry but I would lose a quarter in the transaction. Indicating assent I took the three dollar bills offered as change. Not until I returned to the hotel did I realize that I had been given three U.S. dollar bills. Nice work if you can get away with it.

A sadder and wiser traveller, I was a little startled to be told at a Victoria supermarket that I would be charged four cents on an American half-dollar. I refused, but I must admit that since then the half-dollar has disappeared. Some people are less fussy.

I gather from an American that the exchange discount can be turned to advantage by experienced hands. It appears that Americans have to pay 10 per cent tax on transportation booked in the United States. By booking in Canada it is eliminated, thus creating a saving of 10 per cent which, allowing for exchange, provides a net gain of 5 per cent. Of course if they come to British Columbia they will lose that on their meals.

The local sales tax is immense fun for the skilled tax evader. I have learned already that one does not buy a 10c and a 15c newspaper or magazine together. If you do it will cost you 26c or 27c according to the mood of the newspaper proprietor. Buy them as two separate transactions and there is no tax.

There is fun working out meals on the same basis. By having soup in one restaurant, the main dish in another and sweets and coffee in a third it is possible to escape the tax altogether, thanks to the dollar exemption.

The innocent abroad wonders how such a cumbersome tax structure can be effectively enforced. No doubt it is, but there must be quite a lot collected as tax which never finds its way to the treasury—unless, of course, there is an enforcement officer in every shop. How does anyone know whether I bought my newspapers together or separately? Who prevents a restaurant proprietor giving two checks of 75c to the favored customer eating a $1.50 meal?

Must be that British Columbians are so transparently honest that the situation does not arise. Congratulations.

One of the minor mysteries of Canadian life is the cost of telegrams. In the East I sent three telegrams. One to England. One to New York and one to Victoria. The cheapest message was to England. Next cheapest was to New York and the most expensive was to Victoria. Telephone charges are fabulous to Britons.

We complain about the cost of short distance telephoning—in many cases more expensive than going there by public transport—but trunk calls are cheap. The maximum rate in Britain during the day is equivalent to 50c and for that it is possible to telephone from Land's End to John O'Groats—a distance of 1,000 miles. At night the maximum cost is 17c. We have something to be thankful for, when we contemplate a dollar to Vancouver from Victoria.

Perhaps the most expensive item, comparatively, is the male haircut. At $1.25 Victoria charges more than the average New York hairdresser with a dollar and some advertising "Only 75c." In Britain we have managed to maintain an average of 30c with some of the leading West End tonyorial artists charging from 45c to 60c in the sterling equivalent—but they are very much the exception. Not surprising perhaps that the "convict crop" is so popular this side of the Atlantic. It is about the only way to economize.

"Do you think it's cooling off a little?"

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

FINANCE Minister Fleming is deep in his first budget, and like most of us he's got more ways to spend money than he has money to spend.

The crux of his problem is that the Conservatives really did not expect to win the election, so they made rather grandiose promises of what they'd do in a financial way if they got elected. Now the voters expect them to deliver the goods.

Politically it is most important for the government to carry out its main election promises before the election which political strategists call for 1958. These pledges include tax cuts, higher old age pensions, broader farm price floors, and a new tax deal for the provinces.

Unless Fleming can make large savings in the current year's spending program, which appears unlikely, he will be pretty well limited in his operations by whatever surplus the current year produces. Former Finance Minister Harris estimated this surplus at $152,000,000, and this still looks like a probable figure.

In a political sense the government is favored by the new budget's lateness in the year. Fleming can shoot his whole prospective surplus on an impressive pre-election showing in the last three months of the fiscal year, and leave until after the election the problem of how to carry on programs which on an annual basis would cost four times $152,000,000, or $608,000,000.

The Canadian Tax Foundation has come up with figures which hammer home the difficulties of the Tories' spend-more-taxless position.

The government has promised to reduce taxes, but it hasn't specified just what taxes, with the exception of the 10 per cent excise tax on beer.

If personal income tax rates were reduced by 5 per cent it would cost the treasury up to $80,000,000 a year, and double that for a 10 per cent cut.

If the single personal exemption of $1,000 were increased to $1,200 and the married exemption from $2,000 to $3,000 it would cost more than $150,000,000 a year.

If corporation taxes were cut by 3 percentage points it would cost about $100,000,000 a year.

If the car tax were cut from 10 to 5 per cent, it would cost $100,000,000 a year.

If the 16 cents a pack tax on cigarettes were cut by four cents it would cost about $60,000,000 a year.

If the general sales tax were reduced from 10 to 9 per cent, it would cost $21,000,000 a year.

Obviously only a modest fraction of these cuts can be made on the basis of Fleming's prospective surplus when you consider the increased expenditures to which the Tories are committed.

An increase in social security payments from $16 to $20 a month would cost about $14,000,000. A boost to $25 a month would require about $100,000,000.

Comparable increases in veterans' pensions would cost $17,000,000 or $38,000,000.

Premier Frost of Ontario has asked for tax concessions to the province which would cost $100,000,000 a year. As the Tax Foundation points out, $100,000,000 would seem to be the minimum that can be anticipated, although it could be rolled ahead into the next fiscal year.

For political reasons farm floors can't be. And how much they might cost is anyone's guess.

Upside-Down Platitude

(From The Times, London)

There is a good old aphorism which says that the more you know the more you realize how little you know. And in the case of the aphorism, the more you know the more you realize how little you know.

The aphorism is a good one, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember.

After all, it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember.

It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember.

It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember.

It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember. It is a good one to remember, and it is a good one to remember.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

The Canadian armed forces now pay more to their highly-skilled specialists as a means of holding onto them. It leaves a gap when the corporal who can open beer bottles with his teeth fails to re-enlist.

The world's leaders agree that only a lunatic would start a global war in the atomic age. It's a comforting thought, until one takes a look at the statistics on insanity.

Miracle fabrics today keep men looking neat and crisp, which seems a mistake. It's much better to return home rumpled and frazzled, as though you had been working.

Summer Hideaway

By GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my friends was in search of a summer cottage early in the season, and he looked at dozens that were for sale. We all pitched in and tried to find him the ideal cottage in our various resorts.

Finally, he found exactly what he was seeking.

When he returned to the jumping-off place at the resort, where you hire taxi launches to transport you about the area, he informed the manager of the local store that he had bought So-and-So's cottage up the bay.

"Why," said the storekeeper, "that's got only the one bedroom."

"Exactly," said my friend.

Being a gregarious man in the city, always entertaining, he and his wife determined they would find a summer cottage where they could hide away for the two months and entertain nobody. What they wanted was a cottage with only one bedroom. To all their relatives and friends they could announce that they had, only the one bedroom. And while they would be glad to have anybody drop in for breakfast, lunch or dinner, they happily had no accommodation for overnight guests, nor indeed for the customary one or two-week guests.

It was working out fine.

He came up in his boat to visit us yesterday.

"There were a couple of rats out in the boathouse," he confided. "So we gave them away to the local inhabitants."

"How about your children, your grandchildren?" I inquired.

"They can have big cottages," said he. "Like the ones we used to have. We'll be glad to spend a few days with them, now and then."

"But, my dear man," I protested, "this is flying in the face of tradition. A summer cottage is supposed to be full all season long, with somebody sleeping in a cot on the veranda."

"There are all sorts of rules," he replied. "Sir William Osler said everybody ought to be chloroformed at 40. Somebody else said life begins at 40. All we say is that at 50, every married couple should sneak away and buy a summer cottage with one bedroom."

This is subversive stuff. But good.

Saanich Solution

The logical and workable suggestion by Mr. Joe Barber-Starkie (via Mr. G. E. Mortimore's column recently) has offered a solution to the vexed question of amalgamation.

As he says, there is a natural division of urban and rural land at Royal Oak, and those living north of that point should be allowed to join Central Saanich. In fact, they voted to secede some years ago when the vote was taken, but were outvoted by the heavily populated sections of Saanich.

Let's have another vote on this matter incorporating his plan. This is one instance where the ward system would have worked to advantage.

(Mrs.) PHYLLIS L. SHERMAN,
5067 Old West Road, Royal Oak, B.C.

Where Blame Belongs

The mischievous play of two small boys is to blame for a bad train wreck. So who is to blame? The boys? Perhaps. But how about putting the responsibility for the accident right where it belongs—in the laps of the CNR.

What right have the CNR using switches which can be tampered with so easily by two small boys? You can teach children, and tell children, and punish children for such deeds but anything which might involve the lives of countless people should be safe—guarded against any possible tampering of children.

When we lived in the Interior, my oldest boy spoke several times of the switches on our nearby railroad which runs from Nelson up through Fruitvale. He said they could be changed easily. Of course I told them over and over not to ever touch signals, etc. But, speaking as the mother of five lively boys one equally lively girl, I can only say this: the railroads have no right to leave their switches in such a state that two small boys can cause a disaster. It is time they made them foolproof from children's hands.

(Mrs. A.) RUTH CHISHOLM,
421 Selby Street, Nanaimo, B.C.

Always Responsive

The citizens of Victoria usually respond to a cause whenever the need is apparent and support is justified.

Another demonstration of their loyalty was given on Saturday when the women's committee of the Victoria Symphony Society held their seventh annual garden party. We are sure that many people attended to prove their appreciation of the work done by the committee members and the kindness of Capt. and Mrs. Massey Gooden of Aclow Farm in making their home and garden available for this event.

Pouring rain seemed to increase the determination of our friends to make this affair a financial success and it is a pleasure to offer sincere thanks to them on behalf of the convenors, Mrs. D. B. Roxburgh and Mrs. A. Laundry, members of the committee and the board of directors. We would also like to publicly thank the press, radio and television stations for their unselfish support.

J. BARRACLOUGH,
President.

Losing Battle

A recent news item conveys the idea that B.C. is losing the battle on juvenile delinquency. We would like to pose the question: Will B.C. ever win a battle?

It has become a problem in all industrialized nations. Its causes and possible remedies have engaged the minds of foremost jurists and psychologists to no avail. Playgrounds, community affairs, along with other innovations and reforms have failed to eradicate the problem. The trouble must be deep-rooted to persist as it does.

And deep-rooted it is, right deep down in our environment as is crime in general. The criminals of today were depression born or war born, in turbulent surroundings of stress, strife and stringency. A similar habitat still tends to bring out the acquisitive and antagonistic instincts in people. The emphasis on money and gadget possessions as the way of life is revered. Crimes of every description are committed to stay in the competition, to relieve indigenous frustrations or vent unconscious enemies toward authority. Juvenile delinquency is a big problem behind the iron curtain too, where state capitalism and totalitarianism hold sway.

The logical conclusion can only be that Russia won't win her "battle"; neither will the U.S. or B.C. Juvenile delinquency is here to stay, at least until its causes are replaced by a state of affairs where the conditions for the free development of one are identical to the conditions for the free development of all; in a word, socialism.

Cancer Probe Expenses Approved

Provincial cabinet has approved allowing $12,500 in expenses for investigation of the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic in Texas by a six-man team, headed by members of the University of B.C. medical faculty. The team left last week.

The government ordered the investigation after Mrs. Lydia Arsens, former Social Credit M.L.A., and Ernest Winch, the late CCF member for Burnaby, called for it.

It's Dangerous Dynamite!

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—An old question chafed the World Council of Churches Wednesday: How far should it go in pronouncing moral judgments on the conduct of nations?

This has been a basic, recurring problem for the organization.

It rose anew after the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher said the council should not take sides in international disputes.

He said it should stick to providing simple "moral principles" to help reconcile countries in conflict.

Dr. Fisher added: "We are not to judge... moral indignation is a terribly dangerous dynamite."

His comments drew a flood of speeches. Some agreeing in part, others taking strong exception.

"This is a very important point for the world council and its officers," said Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of America's Lutheran Church and chairman of the meeting here.

Barber Syrt - 706 View

The flurry came as the world council's 80-member central committee began a nine-day meeting.

Churchmen of Anglican, Orthodox and Protestant denominations around the world are among the delegates.

Metropolitan Mar Thoma Jacob of Travancore, India, head of the Mar Thoma Syrian church, said the church should be "in the forefront leading the people" on contemporary world issues.

"I am appalled at the lack of righteous indignation among Christian people," he said. "It is one of the most shocking/crowded, but there is seldom conditions" of the times in any righteous indignation about which we live. Churches are anything

Francis P. Miller, a Presbyterian layman of Charlottesville, Va., said that in the U.S. at least, there was an "enormous need for moral righteous indignation" on the part of the churches.

Miller said the church should be "in the forefront leading the people" on contemporary world issues.

"I am appalled at the lack of righteous indignation among Christian people," he said. "It

Fire Chief's Final Fling

Victoria will play host to 100 British Columbia fire chiefs in the assembly hall of fire convention here Aug. 27 to 30.

Chief Frank Briers, as host, is busy with last-minute preparations for the program, which will include items for the public. For Chief Briers, who retires at the end of the year, the convention will mark the peak of a busy final year in uniform.

Thursday, Aug. 29, will be display and demonstration day at the convention.

PUBLIC INVITED
In the morning the public is invited to see the fire-fighting appliances and life-saving equipment which will be on display in the assembly hall of fire convention here Aug. 27 to 30.

In the afternoon, they may also see demonstration of some of this equipment, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Department of Transport wharf.

Delegates will be welcomed at the opening session by Ald. A. J. Curtis, representing the city and city fire wardens. The invocation will be said by Rev. J. L. W. McLean of First Presbyterian Church.

SALMON BARBECUE
All activities Wednesday will take place at Langford, where Chief Rod Bayles and the Langford Volunteer Fire Department will be hosts at a salmon barbecue in the evening at Goldstream, followed by a barn dance at the Goldstream Inn.

For the delegates' wives there will be several activities, including a scenic drive through Greater Victoria, a fashion show, and on the Wednesday a tea at Royal Colwood Country Club.

driver-salesman's guaranteed monthly salary to $300 and inside employees, $302.

Companies concerned protested they could not afford to give the raise without some savings through curtailed delivery.

They had urged the board to recommend a five-day-a-week system, with no delivery on Wednesday and Sunday. The union asked for skip-a-day delivery.

The board, composed of W. G. Stone, Victoria, chairman, Philip Fleming, Victoria, employers' nominee, and Robert M. Strachan, Nanaimo, employees' nominee, recommended retention of the present six-day delivery.

UP TO FIRMS NOW
Since the distributors turned down the board report, next step in negotiations is up to them, Mr. McCrone said.

The union leader said he would call a policy committee meeting within a week to decide whether to set a strike date or take some other action. This decision would be placed before the full membership for ratification or rejection.

Pageant Prize

Drill Team Surprises Sidney

SIDNEY—Sidney queen Barbara Whipple with princesses Lorri Thorne and Dianne Tuttle in the queen's car won first prize for decorated car in the recent Anacortes pageant parade against 19 other competitors.

Sidney girls' drill team, making only their second appearance, got second prize for drill and third prize for marching.

Sidney girls were led by Mrs. Fred Starr and Mrs. Wilfred Stinson. The team was formed six months ago and made its first public appearance at Sidney pageant July 1.

Its visit to Anacortes followed the visit of Anacortes girls to Sidney for the pageant. The success of the team was unexpected as its entry was regarded largely as a courtesy.

The team consists of 24 girls. They have done everything by their own efforts in raising funds, and have no sponsor.

Hoffa, Thugs Plot To Control Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP)—The committee Wednesday accused teamster union boss James R. Hoffa of an alliance with racketeers in a scheme to take over the U.S. eastern seaboard and the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Chairman John McClellan, Dem. Ark., opening a series of hearings that may last for weeks, said the first big step in the alleged conspiracy was for Hoffa, with the aid of hoodlums, to gain "a stranglehold over the port of New York."

REDS ENLISTED

"One of the interesting facets we expect to show," McClellan said, "is that at times the hoodlums used Communists or former Communists because they were excellent trained organizers and knew all the tricks of and bringing to put a spy on the staff of the McClellan committee."

"The economic factors are tremendous," the chairman declared. "Such power placed in the hands of persons affiliated with racketeers is a danger to the welfare of the nation."

Hoffa is now Midwest vice-president of the Teamsters' Union and a likely successor to president Dave Beck. Hoffa was acquitted July 19 of conspiring

There was no immediate comment from Hoffa on the new charges.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said evidence will show that it was Hoffa who brought racketeers John Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi and Tonio (Tony) Ducks Corallo into the teamsters union.

Pleasure Afloat Grows

Oak Bay's one pleasure boat launching ramp has proven so popular with the growing army of boat-owners that another one may be constructed at Cattle Point.

Reeve Fred Norris said the municipal council was "very seriously considering" the project. If approved, it will be constructed late this year or in time for next year's boating season.

Cattle Point is in the area of the War Memorial in Oak Bay and there is practically unlimited natural parking space available.

"The other ramp (at Oak Bay Boat House) is so popular that we just ran out of parking space there," Mr. Norris said. "The big feature about the Cattle Point site is that parking facilities are so good."

The road there, narrow and of tarred gravel construction, is too close to the water now for manoeuvrability of cars and boat trailers down a ramp and will have to be re-routed, he said.

Basking sharks, which generally lie near the surface, may reach a length of 30 feet.

Mate-Slaying Mother Freed

SAVANNAH, Ga. — A mother of four children has been exonerated for killing her husband, an air force captain who beat her for years, she said, because he was afraid of flying. Mrs. Hileen Benson Dorsey, 31, said Capt. Benjamin A. Dorsey, 33, beat and kicked her for about four hours before she emptied a target pistol at him. She said he held her finger over a candle flame to "show you how it feels for a pilot to burn to death."

... back home.

EDINBURGH—Radio commentator Jack (Jock) Webster, whose pungent comment on the news spoken in a thick Scots burr made his name a household word in British Columbia, has joined Scottish television as a newscaster.

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower says it is easier to quit smoking than most people think. "If a person turns their mind to something else and quits plying themselves about it."

VANCOUVER—John William Buckell, 43, was sentenced by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson in assize court to ten years on each of two charges of attempted murder and one of attempted bank robbery. The terms will run concurrently. The charges followed an attempted robbery of the Royal Bank of Canada main branch in Vancouver.

VANCOUVER—Naomi Green, 21, was sentenced to 10 years in jail for drug trafficking after Magistrate Gordon Scott said: "This woman established herself at a certain coffee counter and addicts might almost be said to be standing in line waiting their turn to get a seat alongside her to buy drugs."

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — A couple who have not spoken in 17 years though under the same roof until last year, and who communicated through the surviving nine of their 17 children, are in divorce court. They are John Barrok, 69, and his wife, Virginia, about 65.

STRATFORD, Ont. — Actor Christopher Plummer has had to take to the wings at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival after injuring one foot while making his entrance as Sir Andrew Aguecheek, comic lead in "Twelfth Night." The production called for him to roll drunkenly onto the stage, and in doing so he slipped and broke a bone in his foot.

ACCRA, Ghana — The government of Ghana has ordered Kankoh Timothy, deputy editor of the British-owned Ghana Daily Graphic, to leave the country within 48 hours. No reason was given.

MIAMI — Anthony Claude, 35, has discovered a great way to do business, but a mighty poor one for staying out of trouble. Police charged the used car dealer with buying the same 1957 Cadillac four times with bogus cheques and reselling it for cash for a net profit of $20,000.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Mary Leona Gage Ennis, Maryland's "Miss United States" turned out to be a Mrs. has been sued for $100,000 by the Baltimore modelling agency that sponsored her.

Rebel Fort Gives Up As Armies Move In

SHARJAH (Reuters) — Izki, the first rebel fort blasted by RAF jet fighters, surrendered Wednesday and the Sultan of Muscat prepared for the next move against rebelling tribesmen.

Neil Innes, foreign minister to the pro-British sultan, said the next action probably will be of "a military nature."

NO U.K. FORCES

Innes said the sultan's three northern armies are encircling the rebels. "I cannot see British ground forces participating in operations in this area," he added.

RAF Venom jets have been ordered to pin down the rebels' transport. The pilots were told no men or animals were to be attacked "with lethal intention" but "to frighten them."

SHOOT BACK

The orders added that motor transport could be attacked after pilots made sure passengers had evacuated vehicles. Pilots could shoot back at gun positions or hostile bands which shot at them.

The "governor of Matram said Wednesday the rebels were inspired by three things: "Money from Saudi Arabia, American-made arms from Saudi Arabia, and inflammatory broadcasts from Cairo radio."

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep, speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas, helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system. Gas Lures New Bidder

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonial Business Editor

A new contender for western Canadian natural gas appeared on the scene yesterday to supply the lucrative California market.

The Pacific Lighting Corporation, which serves many California communities and is a rival of Pacific Gas and Electric, is making application to the California Public Utilities Commission for a franchise to supply natural gas to the California market.

Pacific Lighting proposes to buy the Canadian gas at the California border from Pacific Northwest Pipeline, the El Paso subsidiary which the U.S. and trust commission is seeking to detach from the parent.

In order to provide the new customer, an agreement has been reached with Pacific Northwest for the construction of a 34 inch pipeline from its existing line at Twin Falls, Idaho, to the California border near Los Angeles.

A distance of about 500 miles, and from there Pacific Lighting will construct a similar line to join with its existing gas lines in California.

Gas rivalry keeps heating up in the Pacific Northwest, where the San Francisco area and many parts of southern California are vying for a big push toward gas.

Application is also to be made by the Federal Power Commission and the Canadian government.

With so many U.S. companies pressing for Canadian gas, it is not surprising that the Canadian government is now in a position to give Canada a better deal than it received in the initial business granted Western Transmission and Pacific Northwest.

It is almost unbelievable, but Mr. Abbott assures me it is true that the new Canada Trust building is the first private enterprise office block to be built in the heart of downtown Vancouver since the last world war.

It was around 1912 that the Victoria went through a building boom that brought such buildings as the new Canada Trust building.

Torjan Leads Trading
VANCOUVER—Torjan was responsible for over three quarters of the total trading volume, based near the top of its range.

Other names were in little demand, although there was some activity in B.C. stocks.

In its Port St. John rally, Torjan was up 7.25, and United was up 1.00, while Vantor moved moderately to 2.33 but otherwise there was little activity.

Western Paper B at 1.00, was the strong spot in the industrial section. Macmillan traded down to 5.00.

LOBLAW SALES GROW
A record year is reported by Loblaw Groceries. Annual report for the year ending June 30 shows sales of $10,000,000.

National Tea earnings are included only to the extent of the dividends received. Canadian sales rose 11.4 per cent to $28,000,000.

Loblaw Companies holds 97.1 per cent of the second preference and 96.9 per cent of the common shares of Loblaw Groceries.

Pattern Varies
Company reports for the first half of 1957 are being reviewed in a steady flow of press releases.

In most cases sales are higher but the profit margin is almost invariably smaller.

This means that while some companies are still bettering last year's net profit figures, others are not, and in some manufacturing industries the drop is quite significant.

The heaviest hit, however, are those in the mining and lumber industries, partly because of the ever-increasing premium on the Canadian dollar.

The batch of first half reports received yesterday gives a fairly typical presentation of the scene.

Higher profits were made by Trans-Mountain Pipeline, Canadian Industries Ltd., and the U.S. Steel Lower profits were declared by Macmillan & Bledsoe and Vancouver Franchisees.

Because of extra demand for crude oil during the Suez Canal closure, Trans-Mountain Pipeline was able to report its best ever half year in the first half of 1957.

The line carried an average of 183,416 barrels a day during the period, putting the system, according to the firm, at its peak.

Although the pressure has now been relieved, Trans-Mountain is still using its 1957 program which by the construction of two pumping stations and associated pumping stations will bring the capacity of the line to 200,000 barrels a day.

Industries had lost profit for the first half of 1957 was $1,000,000, a slight improvement over the corresponding quarter of 1956.

Not profit was $1,000,000, a slight improvement over the corresponding quarter of 1956.

For the nine-month period the net profit was $1,000,000, a slight improvement over the corresponding quarter of 1956.

The new kraft paper and board machine at Port Alberni has been running since last September.

Other Reports
Highest sales of pulp and paper were reported by the Canadian Paper Mills.

Higher Rates Sought By Bell Telephone
MONTREAL (C.P.)—Bell Telephone Company of Canada today announced it will soon apply to the board of directors for a 10 per cent increase in rates.

Higher rates are being sought because of the ever-increasing premium on the Canadian dollar.

Vancouver Mystery Disclosed

The provincial government has paid back $8,312 stolen several months ago from the treasury office in Vancouver.

There had been four separate thefts of money from exhibits for trials, only one of which, of $2,243, had been previously reported.

The thefts were disclosed yesterday after the provincial cabinet had an outdoor session, during which the cabinet made good the loss from the treasury office.

Specifically, ministers at the session have been compensated for the loss of $8,312. The cabinet has also been compensated for the loss of $2,243, which was the amount of the first theft.

It was announced that the cabinet has also been compensated for the loss of $2,243, which was the amount of the first theft.

'Get Tough as Blazes With Young Offenders'

Police Get Orders On Wild Drivers

Widespread approval greeted yesterday's call by Victoria Police Commission for a crack-down on youthful traffic violators.

Spurred by last week's beach crash in which one boy was killed and three injured, two seriously, the commission asked Chief Constable John Black, steel and men to get tough as blazes with young offenders.

"We should throw the book at them," said Mayor Percy Sutherland, commission chairman, and motioned that Chief Constable Black should do so.

'PUT TEETH IN IT'
The police, safety education and enforcement will "put teeth in it," said the commission, and position to catch the offenders, especially by young drivers.

"I would like to see a safety program initiated in the schools through all grades," said George J. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Police Bureau and secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Automobile Club.

"For even a few minutes each day, the youngest students should be taught the importance of safety on the streets in the home, in the water everywhere," said Mr. Warren.

"This program" he outlined, "should come on right through school, at the proper age. Young people should be taught not only how to handle a car but as much as possible about its potential dangers."

INSURANCE VIEW
"If this were done I'm sure there would be fewer violations and fewer accidents involving young drivers."

A Victoria insurance man who said he had no objection to a demand for strict enforcement.

"Traffic violators should be given the toughest treatment," he said, "those who drive when their licenses are under suspension should be dealt with severely."

"Repeaters in this category should be given a license which will expire at the end of a year and they will have to take a course which will get their minds on a car."

Members of the commission suggested that the suggestion be put in a motion picture which would be shown in the homes of all young drivers and their parents.

GRIM REMINDER
When some of these questions were asked, the commission suggested that the suggestion be put in a motion picture which would be shown in the homes of all young drivers and their parents.

Others thought the suggestion was vain, that drivers would go to prison, making the stock of cars scarce.

Whatever the reaction, the commission suggested that the suggestion be put in a motion picture which would be shown in the homes of all young drivers and their parents.

This will start immediately while Chief Constable Black is out of the city.

Red-Tape Cut for Parade

NANAIMO city council yesterday made a deal with the provincial committee and the Esquimalt Bay parade committee.

A council will grant the permit and committee $2,000 which will be used for the use of the parade committee.

They are intended to illustrate to Eastern Canadians how good fishing is around Vancouver Island and to encourage them to take their vacations on the West coast.

Parade chairman Les Mott said that the committee had agreed to cut the red tape and to make the parade more attractive.

Cigaretts Got You by Throat? Just Grit Your Teeth and Quit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Do you have a habit that becomes a drive in your life? Do you find yourself having a "bitch" you can't quit? You are not alone. The South Seas of psychiatry is brimming with people who are "bitching" about their habits.

But the advice of doctors, psychologists and others is to "grit your teeth" and quit. The South Seas of psychiatry is brimming with people who are "bitching" about their habits.

Said Dr. Lewis E. Munn, chief of the U.S. public health service, who has announced plans to encourage "bitching" about habits.

GRIT YOUR TEETH

If you are determined to quit just grit your teeth and quit. The South Seas of psychiatry is brimming with people who are "bitching" about their habits.

On psychiatry, Dr. Robert F. Munn, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, has a message for you. "Grit your teeth," he says, "and quit."

First, an expert on the field of addiction does not recommend that you quit when you are in a "bitching" mood. He suggests that you quit when you are in a "gritting" mood.

CHW GUM

The first and foremost suggestion is to quit when you are in a "gritting" mood. The first and foremost suggestion is to quit when you are in a "gritting" mood.

He and others suggested starting with a small amount of gum, say one piece, and then gradually increasing the amount. The first and foremost suggestion is to quit when you are in a "gritting" mood.

CULTURAL HABIT
James H. Munn, pipe-smoking as a "cultural habit" of psychiatry at George Washington University, says that it is a "cultural habit" of psychiatry at George Washington University.

FAMOUS FOR FINE WATCHES AND DIAMONDS

Anti-Reds Harangue Crowds—In Moscow!

MOSCOW, Aug. 1.—A large crowd gathered in the city square today to hear a speaker who harangued the crowd against the "Reds" and the "Yanks". The speaker, who was identified as a "patriotic" American, urged the crowd to "stand up to the Reds" and "defend the West". He claimed that the "Reds" were plotting to take over the world and that the "Yanks" were their main allies. The crowd, which was estimated to be one of the largest in the city, responded enthusiastically to the speaker's words. The speaker concluded his address by urging the crowd to "stand firm" and "defend the West" against the "Reds".

Round Two

Wife Beaten Up —In Courtroom

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 1.—A woman who was beaten up by her husband in a courtroom today, was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. The woman, who was identified as a "patriotic" American, was charged with the assault on her husband. The assault took place in the courtroom during a trial. The woman's husband, who was also a "patriotic" American, testified that he was beaten up by his wife. The judge, who was also a "patriotic" American, sentenced the woman to a term of imprisonment. The woman's lawyer, who was also a "patriotic" American, appealed the sentence. The appeal was denied by the court.

Teacher's Hair-Pull Backed by Court

IOLETT, Que. (CP)—Judge Aime Chasse says teachers are justified in using moderate punishment to maintain discipline in their classrooms. He made the comment in acquitting a teacher charged with unjustifiable corporal punishment of a pupil. Evidence was that the teacher took the boy by the hair and forced him to kneel down because he was misbehaving. Judge Chasse said there is a general lack of discipline among children today, and now is not the time to undermine the authority of teachers.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

By DAVID BROWN
(Bruce Lowther on Holidays)

Hollywood should concentrate on bigger and better films and forget about TV scripts according to Warner

The reason the public's storied 12-year-old mentality is "just a myth," and in front of the TV set, the public will watch anything because it's free, but it will "smell out" good pictures to see in a theatre.

TV and "movies" are media at opposite poles, he contends. With the exception of "Marty" and "Dragnet," he knows of no TV property that has been successfully converted to the big screen.

Among other pictures he has completed for Warner is "The Helen Morgan Story" which also had a fling on television, but Rackin feels the story on TV won't affect his film's box office.

He termed the television show a "whitewash" of the singer's life, added that "people who've seen the show will only be more eager to see the picture."

Calypso artist Harry Belafonte is slated to make his first TV guest appearance since he crashed the big time with bongos and belows when he hit with Nat Cole next Tuesday at 10 p.m. on channel 4.

It's a quiet day, with the only highlights being the Climax and Playhouse 90 programs, and two movies, the corny old "Madame Curie" and "Passport to Pimlico."

Today's Best

6:00—Captain Puget goes aboard the Nippon Maru, a sailing vessel of the Japanese Merchant Marine, used for training purposes (channel 4).
8:30—Climax! presents Cameron Mitchell, Phyllis Thaxter in "Payment for Judas" (channel 2). Dane Clark, Jerry Colona in "The Giant Killer" (channels 11 and 12).
9:30—Joanne Dru, Dan O'Herlihy and a fine supporting cast in "The Blackwell Story," a good Playhouse 90 rerun (channel 11).
10:30—New show, Let's Sing, from Winnipeg (channel 2).
11:00—Hoot Gibson returns on The Best of Groucho (channel 4).

Sport Specials

7:00—Island Sportman (channel 6); Bowling (channel 12).
10:00—Texas wrestling (channel 6).

Movie Lineup

11:00—Madame Curie (channel 5), part one, Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon. Fair.
12:00—The Fawn (channel 4).
1:30—Presenting Lily Mars (channel 5), Judy Garland.
1:30—Three for Bedroom C (channel 12), Gloria Swanson.
3:00—Dulcimer Street (channel 5), Alastair Sim.
3:00—Passport to Pimlico (channel 6), Stanley Holloway. Good.
3:30—Bonnie Scotland (channel 4), Laurel and Hardy.
3:30—Dancing Pirate (channel 12).
3:45—Double Dynamite (channel 13), Groucho Marx, Frank Sinatra, Jane Russell.
4:00—Ramona (channel 11), Loretta Lynn.
5:00—Flying Tiger (channel 4), John Wayne.
6:00—Stage to Chino (channel 13).
7:00—Riders of the Range (channel 13).
9:00—Stampede (channel 13), Gale Storm. Again at 2 a.m.
10:00—Good News (channel 5), June Allyson. Fair.
10:40—Blanche Fury (channel 12), Stewart Granger. Fair.
11:00—Dangerous Profession (channel 13), George Raft.
11:05—Red Canyon (channel 11), George Brent, Ann Blyth.
11:15—Two Thousand Women (channel 2), Phyllis Calvert.
11:45—This Man's Navy (channel 5).

'Situation Very Serious'

Logging's Big Three Reduce Operations

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three men for more than 3,500 log since the threat of a strike by major logging companies have announced shutdowns and layoffs normally employing more than 700 men have not reopened.

CBC Slashes Shows In Big TV Purge

TORONTO (BUP)—Three of the CBC's leading television shows will be dropped this fall, and two others may also be shelved.

An official said "there are no fall plans" for Pick the Stars and the Denny Vaughan and Jackie Rae shows. Future of the Wayne and Shuster show and the Barris Beat was in doubt.

America early in July.

Alaska Pine has closed camps normally employing 300 men.

MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. said Tuesday it will lay off 500 men during August in temporary suspension of operations at five eastern Vancouver Island lumber camps. A company spokesman said the layoffs have been made necessary because of over-supply of logs at sawmills.

Harry McQuillan, president of the British Columbia Truck Loggers' Association, said the logging industry is entering its worst period since the 1930s. "The situation is very serious," he said.

Now They've Got Everything

Last thing to be moved yesterday from the Armed Services Leave Centre at 1314A Government to a new and larger centre at 1305 Broad Street, was this television antenna held by AB Les Turner of HMCS Naden. He is flanked by Mrs. Lynda Murphy, secretary, and CPO John Lang of HMCS Naden. Official opening of the new centre, now in operation but in need of renovations, is scheduled for October. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman)

Probe Promised

Prison Rioters Win Playground

DEER LODGE, Mont. (UPI)—The attorney general claimed authorities regained full control of the Montana State Prison late yesterday and locked all inmates, including a murderer who had the run of the penitentiary yard for 24 hours, in their cells.

The inmates gained one definite concession from their day and night disturbance: A promise from the State Board of Prison Commissioners to convert an "union garden" in the yard into a playground.

However, attorney general Forrest H. Anderson assured the rioters again that his office would make an "earnest and extensive" investigation into other problems listed by the prisoners.

The attorney general claimed that not until this morning did the prison that had been compiled early this year after study reports by three out-of-state wardens.

"Quite a few of the prisoners demands and especially some of the more important ones were pointed up by the wardens in this report as weak points in the Montana prison system," Anderson said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A strike of 230 nurses at St. Paul's Hospital has been set for 7 a.m. Aug. 8. Miss Evelyn Hood, spokesman for the B.C. Registered Nurses' Association, announced.
